

Gary "SNAPSHOT" Kohn

Traveling and listening to Beethoven Symphony No. 9 are just a couple of things that RSB MoCo member, Gary "SNAPSHOT" Kohn, enjoys doing when taking a break from the boxing gym. Some of the most fascinating and breathtaking sites around the world have been captured by the eyes and lens of this fighter. A 360-degree panoramic view of snow-covered mountains in New Zealand is by far the most amazing creation he has ever seen.

To see some of the moments in travel that have been captured by SNAPSHOT's camera is to be utterly amazed with a deep desire to know, "What is it that inspires him so?" When asked this question, he firmly stated, "My wife, Niki. I love her enthusiasm for life, her thirst for knowledge, her genuine interest in people. She's loving, caring, accepting, supportive, and loyal." With Niki's inspiration and the determination often seen in his eyes while boxing at RSB MoCo, his coaches believe that Gary "SNAPSHOT" Kohn is the best example of his philosophy on life, "Live each day to the fullest. I've learned the hard way that you can't take it for granted that you'll get another chance."

When Gary sends emails to his friends and family with photos and a brief description of his recent travels and tells them that he is boxing, they're surprised. Some ask, "Why boxing?" Others say, "Cool!" What SNAPSHOT wants all of us to know is that RSB MoCo is a place where he feels he belongs: "I am there with a small community of people with a common sense of purpose. It's a group of people who care about each other. It's also the first time I can remember enjoying exercise and looking forward to it, and even wishing there was an extra day of the week. None of this would be nearly as enjoyable without two wonderful coaches, Angel and Makeda, who make everyone feel so special, treating all of us with the utmost respect and genuine interest for all of our welfare."