

Ren "THE RETIRED PHYSICIST" Chang

5-4-3-2-1 is a familiar countdown heard by Ren "The Retired Physicist" Chang in and out of the ring! Although he often refers to himself as the "retired physicist," optimal design and masterful performance are two characteristics that have followed this fighter from the moon to the boxing gym.

In his early career as a physicist, Ren was responsible for the design analysis and the performance testing of one of the instruments left on the moon by the Apollo 11 astronauts called the "Lunar Laser Retroreflector Array." The fighter's impeccable analytical skills and proficient techniques are on target each time he enters the boxing gym. "The Retired Physicist" rigorously focuses on accuracy and strength – determined to maintain a steadfast stance and land every punch with speed and power.

As a former competitive dancer, fancy footwork is this fighter's expertise, whether it is in the boxing gym or the ballroom. "I used to compete in ballroom dancing, something like eight times a year and for ten years by going to various places. Now I don't know what to do with the medals and trophies that are cluttering the closet space." As an undeniable champion, RSB Coaches, fellow fighters, caregivers and volunteers often admire the fighter's ability to go 8-10 rounds with such precision and skill, causing Parkinson's to buckle every round.

After retirement, Ren "The Retired Physicist" Chang started creating slideshows and resurrected the hobby of music writing which he started in high school, but neglected after beginning his graduate studies in physics. "I love making video slideshows!" In recent years, in order to exercise his brain in addition to his body,

“The Retired Physicist” started taking interest in solving puzzles, especially Sudoku. Now, he creates videos to show others how to solve Sudoku puzzles. Even though the fighter tends to shy away from doing yard work, “Bugs love to bite me when I am outside,” he never gives up on fighting back; bobbing and weaving to keep every opponent at bay. His lifelong belief is to “do all that he can.”

Yet, what inspires him the most? “Has to be RSB MoCo, personified by two dedicated coaches. Their commitment and dedication to the cause is most heartening and inspiring. I love RSB MoCo!”
